Excerpt: . . . point-blank question that the truth came out. I had been tolerantly used, both by simple Father Apollinaris and astute Father Michael; and the good Irish deacon, when he heard of my religious weakness, had only patted me upon the shoulder and said, You must be a Catholic and come to heaven. But I was now among a different sect of orthodox. These two men were bitter and upright and narrow, like the worst of Scotsmen, and indeed, upon my heart, I fancy they were worse. The priest snorted aloud like a battle-horse. Et vous pretendez mourir dans cette espece de croyancef he demanded; and there is no type used by mortal printers large enough to qualify his accent. I humbly indicated that I had no design of changing. But he could not away with such a monstrous attitude. No, no, he cried; you must change. You have come here, God has led you here, and you must embrace the opportunity. I made a slip in policy; I appealed to the family affections, though I was speaking to a priest and a soldier, two classes of men circumstantially divorced from the kind and homely ties of life. Your father and mother cried the priest. Very well; you will convert them in their turn when you go home. I think I see my fathers face! I would rather tackle the Gsetulian lion in his den than embark on such an enterprise against the family theologian. But now the hunt was up;...
